God Knows All

You comprehend my path and my lying down, and are acquainted with all my ways. For there is not a word on my tongue, but behold, O LORD, You know it altogether.

Psalm 139:3-4

Focus on Christ

How attentive are you to details? Do you think about every action? Can you judge how to shape the next month or year? It is interesting to note that no one on earth has ever accurately predicted the major social events, wars, or natural disasters.

God is acquainted with all your ways. That is comprehensive and hard for people to believe. He knows everything about your past, present, and future. It is awesome to think that He knew it all before you were ever born. He knows all about your busy day. He knows what captures your attention. He knows what you think about when you come to the end of your day. He knows what you say and what you think. Nothing is hidden from God.

Knowing all these things is the very reason He sent His Son, Jesus. God knows your needs and knew ahead of time that you would need a Savior. Every human is cursed with sin. This curse began at the fall of man in the garden of Eden. God knows that sin will be a battle for you to overcome. In fact, He knew that you could not overcome sin. That is why He sent His Son for you.

When you become a believer and Christ becomes the Lord of your life, He is personally available in time of need. Christ knew you before you received Him, He knew your future struggles. Now that He is Lord of your life those facts do not change. He still knows your needs and your struggles. The relationship that you form with Jesus should become your safety and your protection. Because Jesus knows everything about you, you need to have confidence to approach Him at all times. When you hold back on Christ, it only hinders you, because He already knows everything that is happening. Dive into your relationship with Christ and be fully committed to His Ways.

Focus on Self

Self wants to hide its problems and handle them on its own. This is such a hard way to live because when it comes to sin, self does not have an escape. Only Christ can save self from its sin. Christ knows you and He loves you. This should drive you to rest and trust in His Ways.
